A BITTER PILL

Drugs firm to axe hundreds of staff and shut down part of Harlow site

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of jobs are to be axed at GlaxoSmithKline in Harlow, fuelling rumours that it could be on the verge of pulling out of the town.

The pharmaceuticals giant has given a clear signal that it is planning to cease research into selected neuroscience areas, leaving staff at the company's New Frontiers Science Park at Pinnacles fearing the worst.

The proposals form part of an expanded cost-cutting programme. GSK hopes to claw back £250m worth of savings from a shake-up of its R&D facilities worldwide, despite recording a three per cent growth in sales over the course of last year.

This week it was reported that up to 380 jobs are to go at the Harlow site, almost a third of the current workforce.

One employee, who wished to remain anonymous, told the Star the firm was planning to cease all neuroscience drug research at Harlow.

"As I understand it, the plan is to pull out of all but two buildings on the south site which will house pharmaceutical development and molecular discovery research sample management.

"This is very worrying news for the hundreds of people who work on this site. There are very

Senior BNP figure lined up to fight Harlow poll

VOTERS in Harlow were this week urged not to be "hoodwinked" by the far right British National Party after it announced it would put up a candidate in Harlow at the General Election.

The party has named senior BNP figure Eddy Butler as the man who will contest the seat. But the news has been condemned by all three main parties.

Harlow MP Bill Rammell said: "I abhor the policies of the BNP, a party which directly descends from Hitler's Nazis.

"The BNP uses fear to divide ordinary people when their interests are served by coming together. I believe the majority of people who vote for the BNP are not racist, just disillusioned by the main political parties.

"It's now up to my party and others to reach out to voters in the lead up to the next General Election and convince people that the BNP will never be an alternative in Harlow."

Conservative Parliamentary candidate Robert Halfon said the BNP would not hoodwink

Staff fearing the worst as GSK cuts jobs few alternative positions available locally for scientists."

Harlow MP Bill Rammell spoke of his disappointment at the announcement that jobs will be lost but said he had been told only part of the current site will close and the company would continue to retain a presence in Harlow.

"They have also informed me that the effects of their restructuring are spread across a number of their sites, so it is not only Harlow which is affected," he said.

GSK chief executive Andrew Witty confirmed the company would seek to "reduce R&D [research and development] infrastructure costs" but did not comment upon the rumoured closure.

"We remain very conscious of the impact restructuring has on our employees," he said. "Where possible, we will try to preserve jobs."

GSK is one of Harlow's largest employers and any closure would have a serious impact on the town's economy.

Mr Rammell said he had written to Mr Witty to seek reassurances that everything possible is being done to support and find alternative positions for those affected.

"I have also written to Malcolm Morley, the chief executive of Harlow Council, to urge the council to do everything they can to help and discuss what they can do to encourage another organisation employing local people to take over that part of GSK which will be vacated."

Conservative Parliamentary hopeful Robert Halfon said: "My main worry is not just for the people who may lose their jobs but also those people who will be hurt indirectly by this decision."

"I believe this could have a

Military research labs 'not heading to Harlow'

SUGGESTIONS that a military research plant was set to be relocated to a site on the outskirts of Harlow have been quashed by the Government this week.

The alarm was raised when it was reported that the Health Protection Agency wanted to close its Porton Down facility in Wiltshire and move it to the former Merck Sharp & Dohme site at Terlings Park near Gilston.

The reports raised fears that MoD nuclear, biological and chemical weapon research facilities at Porton Down would also move to the site off Eastwick Road. The HPA refused to confirm its plans and the Star received several calls and emails from concerned residents.

Harlow Civic Society described any move as "totally unacceptable" because of the danger of leakages and potential for terrorist attacks close to the town and the proposed Harlow North development.

But after contacting the Department of Health to clarify the situation, Harlow MP Bill Rammell said: "I am informed that while the HPA is considering options to modernise their facilities, they are only just at the stage of preparing a business case which will then go to the Department of Health and then to ministers if it reaches the final business case stage."

"No decisions have been taken yet but I would be very pleased if the HPA brought more jobs to Harlow and I will work in any way appropriate to ensure Harlow is viewed positively for future investment by both companies and public bodies."

However the reassurances were not enough for some as concerns were also raised about the presence of the HPA in Harlow.

Jim Rogers, of The Respect Party, said: "The medical work of the HPA is certainly not without high risk research components either. It is highly questionable that this location will ever be a citadel of safety able to guarantee its inherent risks remain within."

major effect on the supply chain in Harlow, affecting other jobs and the economy in general.

"This decision by GSK is a sad reflection on the economic situation and comes hot on the heels of a number of job losses in Harlow."

Harlow Council leader Andrew Johnson said: "Any job losses are a blow to the town and we will do everything we can do support those affected by these proposals.

"GSK is not withdrawing from Harlow completely and they will remain a major employer in the town. Harlow continues to be a great business location, and we will do all that we can to attract a similarly high profile employer to the facilities in the North Science Park to help create new jobs."

rible shock," he said. "Harlow is a diverse community with substantial ethnic minorities mixing well with the white population."

It is unclear what connections Mr Butler has with Harlow and the BNP did not respond to the Star's requests for an interview.

But on a BNP website Mr Butler said: "I know Harlow very well. All the problems seen in London are fast appearing out here now, and many local people came to Harlow to get away from all that."

"When I attended the [local election] count in Harlow last June the BNP votes were very impressive. Harlow is a fast developing area for the BNP in Essex and I hope that my campaign in this seat will establish us in an even stronger position."

"The BNP seeks to exploit disharmony for their own ends. I do not believe that they will hoodwink Harlow residents who, whilst outraged at Gordon Brown's failure to get to grips on immigration problems, are determined to vote in a Government which will do something about it rather than an extremist fringe movement that will make matters even worse."

Double the distance for twice as much fun

WOMEN thinking of signing up for the Race For Life in Harlow were reminded they can double the distance they cover.

This year the Cancer Research UK fundraiser is giving entrants the chance to take part in the usual 5km event or plump for the new 10km circuit.

The Star is one of the official supporters of Race For Life, which is takes place in Harlow Town Park on Sunday, May 9. It is one of only a handful of events taking place nationally where women will get a choice of two distances.

Harlow was chosen to trial the 10km option because the location is capable of accommodating the new course and the charity enjoys exceptionally strong support from the local community.

There is no additional fee for taking on the extra distance.

Harlow event manager Lucy Hynes said: "Those who take part in Race for Life often wonder if they could tackle a longer distance."

"This year we are giving women in Harlow a great 'buy-one-get-one-free' offer because they can enter Race for Life and then choose the 10km option instead of 5km."

"Women who choose to take part in the 10km can walk, jog or run, but by doubling their distance they will also be doubling their fun and sense of personal achievement on the day."

Race for Life 2010 is the UK's largest women-only fundraising event series. Organisers hope that 4,000 women will enter the Harlow event.

To find out more about Race for Life and to sign up, visit the website at www.raceforlife.org or call 0871 641 1111.

Giving help to 'hidden' carers

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MORE than two-thirds of carers in Harlow do not seek help or support, according to a newly launched NHS service.

Latest figures show that 7,000 people shoulder the responsibility of caring for someone such as an elderly parent or disabled family member, a figure representing approximately one in 10 of Harlow residents.

But many do not register with health or care organisations because they do not consider themselves carers, even though some spend 20 hours or more a week looking after loved ones.

The newly launched Carers Direct helpline has been set up to reach these hidden carers and encourage them to find out what practical and financial support may be available to them.

Dame Philippa Russell, chairwoman of the Standing Commission on Carers, said: "So many of us take on the role of carer without even knowing it."

"Often it starts with offering to help an elderly relative with shopping or checking if they've taken their medication. But before you know it you're with them several hours or more a week and as their ability to look after themselves deteriorates they rely on you even more."

"Without help and support you can find yourself struggling with what can be very physical and mental demands, trying to balance work and home life and potentially risking your own health and wellbeing as a result."

Rob Finch, from Carers Direct, added: "Whether you look after someone for a few hours or several days a week, the helpline is there for you."

"Staffed by trained advisers, many of whom are carers themselves, the helpline can provide information, advice and support, whether that's how to take a break, getting special equipment, help in the home, financial support or even just a friendly voice to talk to for reassurance."

"We're here to help in whatever way we can."

Free information, support and advice is available by calling Carers Direct free on 0808 802 02 02 or visiting the website at www.nhs.uk/carersdirect.

Guides celebrate centenary during a trip to Disneyland

A party of 65 Brownies, Guides and leaders from Harlow celebrated 100 years of the Girl Guide movement with a trip to Disneyland Paris.

The group from the Harlow division joined up with 700 others from around West Essex for the weekend break.

It took two years to plan the trip and involved all 10 divisions in the movement's Essex West region.

Within each division there are Rainbows (5-7 years), Brownies (7-11), Guides (11-14) and the senior section (14+).

As well as enjoying themselves on the theme park's rides, they were treated to a centenary party during which a new song to mark the occasion was sung. Mickey and Minnie Mouse also made an appearance.

Charlotte Trussler, a leader with the 1st Sheering Guide, said: "The girls had a fantastic time. The point was to go away and have lots and lots of fun."

● Any parents or guardians wanting to find a local Guide unit for their daughter or interested in becoming a volunteer should contact division commissioner Pauline Gillett on (01279) 430517.

Friendship club a place to socialise for older people

A NEW friendship club has been launched by Age Concern Harlow to give older people a place to meet and socialise.

The get-togethers will take place every Friday from 1.15-4.15pm at the Age Concern premises in the Rainbow Centre, Wych Elm.

Those who attend will pay £2.50 which includes toast, soup and refreshments. Transport can be provided at an extra cost of £1.50.

The club is being helped with a grant from Harlow Council.

Age Concern spokeswoman Lisa Mahoney said: "Many older people have said they would like the opportunity to have a place to meet up and we know there are a lot of people who are isolated in the community, who feel lonely and would like to be able to have a place to go and meet others."

"This grant has enabled us to employ a new staff member who will be dedicated to arranging the meetings."

"We are really happy to be able to offer a service to people who may not now fit the criteria at the Leah Manning Centre but want to be able to get out and meet people in a safe, warm and friendly environment."

Thieves strip lead from building roof

POLICE have warned householders and businesses with lead flashing around the windows or on the roofs of their homes or premises they could be a target for thieves.

Lead worth thousands of pounds was stripped from the roof of a building in The Fairway, Harlow, between January 29 and February 2.

Crime reduction officer Emma Clark said: "Lead flashing, which is usually found around windows and on roofs, is heavy and the thieves must be using a vehicle of some sort to transport the lead away from the location."

"It is likely that the criminals are identifying areas where they can get relatively easy access to lead flashing, driving to the scene, ripping the lead out and then leaving as quickly as they can."

Anyone with information about the theft should contact police on 0300 333 4444 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Schoolfriends' farewell to Jamie

By CHRIS MOSS
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of pupils, some in tears, lined the street outside Passmores School on Monday to pay their last respects to Jamie Bone.

The popular 15-year-old died in December after a long battle with illness.

In a moving tribute, every pupil and member of staff stood in silence as the funeral cortege passed the Tendring Road school on its way to Parndon Wood Cemetery.

Jamie's coffin, decorated with the design of a football stadium, was transported in a carriage drawn by two black horses.

Around 30 of his former classmates attended the funeral service, where several of his closest friends read out poems and tributes.

Jamie, of Bishopsfield, Harlow, died after an artificial heart valve stopped working following an infection.

In the days following his death his friends set up a tribute page on social networking site Facebook which attracted more than 900 members.

This week, Passmores headteacher Vic Goddard told the Star he was proud of his students for their "absolute respect" and "impeccable behaviour" on what was a very sad day for the whole school.

"It was a very difficult day for everyone at Passmores and for everyone who knew and loved Jamie," he said.

"Silence can be very powerful and the silence that greeted the funeral procession was the perfect send off for a much-missed member of our community."

"He was an amazingly brave and energetic little man who always had a smile on his face despite all the battles he fought throughout his life."

Mr Goddard added: "The day gave our pupils the chance to reflect on their own lives and realise that they must grasp life with both hands and make the most of opportunities that come their way."

Firefighter touched by the resilience of quake survivors

By JEAN MARSDEN
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ESSEX firefighter and UK rescue worker Terry Webb spoke this week about the devastation he witnessed while working in the earthquake-hit region of Haiti.

Mr Webb, an assistant divisional officer with the Essex Fire & Rescue Service, was deployed to the capital, Port-au-Prince, after the earthquake hit the Caribbean country last month.

The urban search and rescue manager went to help co-ordinate the EU rescue efforts and on Friday, following his return to Essex after more than a week in the earthquake zone, he talked to the media at a press conference.

He spoke to reporters about the shock and trauma on the faces of the Haitians during the first couple of days but after that watched as they got on with living in the aftermath of a major catastrophic event.

Mr Webb described the people of Haiti as "extremely resilient" and said their robustness and fortitude was "immense".

It is estimated that 200,000 died in the quake and the aftershocks, which measured 6.1 on the Moment Magnitude Scale. Many more were injured.

About 122 people were rescued by national and international teams.

Mr Webb described the rescue as a very large complex operation. "The urban search and rescue mission has been one of the biggest ever known."

He carried out assessment missions and often got an aerial view of the island, helping to make sure that rescue missions were sent to the right place.

Following the aftershocks, he carried out assessments of the new epicentre.

Essex Deputy Chief Officer Gordon Hunter said they were happy their expertise could be used to help people who were in terrible difficulty.

Mr Webb also played a part in the rescue efforts in Sumatra last September.

The British Red Cross is appealing to people to clear out their closets to raise cash for the Disasters Emergency Committee Haiti Earthquake Appeal.

Anyone wanting to donate unwanted goods should take them to their local shop so all the money raised can go directly to the appeal. Good-quality clothing, books, homewares and unwanted gifts will be specially labelled as goods to be sold for Haiti.

To support the appeal, call 01883 724222.

ObituariesJoyce Jones
(1924-2010)

AN architect who helped shape Harlow and documented some of its most important historic buildings has died aged 85.

Joyce Jones studied for her degree in architecture at Manchester University but her studies were interrupted by the Second World War during which she served in the Auxiliary Territorial Service.

As a special wireless operator she monitored and transcribed enemy messages for decoding at Bletchley Park. In 1945 she was promoted to the rank of sergeant and transferred to Catterick Military Hospital to teach arts and craft to wounded and disabled servicemen.

After graduating, she worked for Buckinghamshire County Council where she met future husband, Eric. They married in 1953 and settled in Harlow, where both were employed by the town's development corporation.

Mrs Jones worked as an architect and town planner with consultant landscape architect Dame Sylvia Crowe, working with Sir Frederick Gibberd on the design of the new town.

She produced many documents on Harlow's buildings and history including one of High House, the family home since 1959.

After Mrs Jones retired, she increased her voluntary work in the community.

Her neighbour and friend Frank Jackson said: "Joyce's legacy will live on through her local landscape schemes and her splendid publications. Her knowledge, skills, support and advice will be missed by all her many friends."

Mrs Jones is survived by her husband, son Lewis, daughter Sarah and two grandchildren.

Wally Davey
(1925-2010)

LOCAL historian and former teacher Wally Davey, who wrote a book on the importance of Harlow's pre-18th century pottery industry, has died at the age of 84.

Mr Davey, a former member of the 6th Airborne Regiment, trained as a teacher after leaving the RAF. He moved to Harlow with his wife, Enid, in the 1950s.

While a teacher of pottery at Brays Grove School, he discovered the remains of a 17th century kiln in the playing field. He recognised pottery fragments as Metropolitan ware, which was popular throughout Britain and its colonies before the 18th century.

Mr Davey researched the subject and he used the knowledge he gained to co-produce The Harlow Pottery Industries, which was published in June last year.

He also took an interest in the productions of the Moot House Players and local politics, and was a keen jazz enthusiast.

Mr Davey is survived by two adopted daughters, Rachel and Miriam, and four grandchildren.

Man tied up partner with metal chain

A HARLOW man chained up his partner and locked her inside their home for two hours because her parents allegedly owed him money, a court heard.

A few weeks before the incident, Stewart Boochoon (27) cut her arm with a knife.

Boochoon, of Seymours, pleaded guilty to false imprisonment and unlawful wounding. He was remanded in custody until March 22 pending a psychiatric report.

Richard Scott, prosecuting at Chelmsford Crown Court, said the knife attack occurred between April and July last year when his partner, Adele O'Neil, was in the kitchen.

"The defendant became angry and alluded to her parents owing him £10,000," said Mr Scott. "He began waving a knife, whereupon she felt a sharp stab in the left arm."

"Almost immediately Boochoon came to her aid, telling her to put pressure on the cut and place a tourniquet."

"She contacted a friend and obtained some butterfly stitches but didn't go to hospital until it became infected."

On August 13 Ms O'Neil went out to take their daughter for a blood test and on her return was let in to the house by the Boochoon.

Mr Scott told the court: "He told her to lie on the floor, made reference to the money and said 'You know why - your family.'"

"He got a metal chain and tied her wrists together behind her back. When she complained to take them off her, he told her to roll on her back and he put the chains back on her front."

Mr Scott said Boochoon kept her in chains for two hours. When he finally removed them he locked the front and back doors, removed the keys and asked her: "Do you want me to chain you up again?"

Police eventually arrived on the scene after being alerted by Ms O'Neil's mother.

Adjourning the case for reports, judge Rodger Hayward Smith said: "I want to know whether there's a high risk of serious harm to people."

MEP helps to drum up interest in credit union

SAVVY savers should ditch high street banks and move their money into Harlow's own credit union, according to Essex Euro MP Richard Howitt.

Mr Howitt marked the start of the European Year to Combat Poverty by opening a new savings account at Harlowsave Credit Union at Wych Elm.

The HCU has more than 1,000 members and is entrusted with almost £1m of local residents' savings.

"Local money co-ops like Harlowsave Credit Union offer a real alternative to greedy high street bankers," Mr Howitt said. "With bankers getting massive bonuses again it is clear they still don't get it. Credit unions are run by their savers and borrowers for the benefit of their savers and borrowers."

"They are safe, secure and ethical offering, responsible saving and borrowing to those betrayed by banks and preyed on by loan sharks."

Stand and fight, Linda

SIR, Isn't it ironic that the party which bleated about Gordon Brown not standing for election when he became Prime Minister now embraces a defector who has, presumably, completely abandoned the principled stand on which she was elected to become a Tory ("Tories welcome former Lib Dem with open arms", Star, February 4)

Though this is only one seat on a local council, the principled position would be to resign and to stand for re-election on her real beliefs and, by convincing the electorate that she has the right policies, let the people decide.

That is even more appropriate now the Tories, in attempting to freeze the council tax and buy the next election (or act with fiscal prudence as they would suggest), are preparing to slash more jobs and services. We could use the vote as a mini-referendum!

Cutting services to fill the (unproven) black hole may seem like a good idea but the damage done to quality of life and environment will take a few years to show up and a few decades to put right.

In a number of London boroughs, councillors swapped sides to support one ticket after a 'decent interval' (usually being independent for a few months) and then suddenly emerged with a set of policies which were the complete negation of everything they claimed to stand for before. Oddly enough, they also endorsed the Tory Parliamentary candidate and claimed to have always had a preference for them – which would no doubt have been interesting news to their Lib Dem or Labour colleagues when they were out on the streets canvassing.

Either Linda Pailing had a Damascene conversion to the illiberal and cynical policies of the Tories or all previous utterances were pretence and we should know how to value her opinions.

So does she stand for privatising the Town Show, cutting environmental services, increasing service charges, removing support for organisations which help the old and vulnerable, transferring several council workers from paid and useful work to the benefits system? Does she support Robert Where's the profit in panto funding?

SIR, I read with interest Harlow Council's decision to increase funding to The Playhouse (Star, February 4).

During my time as Playhouse manager and as Head of Arts for Harlow Council I expended considerable energies putting the case for the Playhouse to have a realistic funding base. Under normal circumstances, therefore, I would more than welcome the promise of increased financial support for it, but in this instance – £20,000 to extend the pantomime run – I must question it.

During my time as theatre manager, and under Philip Dale my successor, the pantomime was produced by The Playhouse as a community production. In fact it was renowned for producing the most successful community pantomime in the country. What does this mean? It means the production was cast from local, non-professional performers and supported by the technical expertise of the theatre's own professional staff.

The performers took part, not for money but for the reward of being part of this highly valued tradition. Not only was this good for the community it was good for The Playhouse as the pantomime always produced a financial surplus.

The last two years have seen this tradition replaced by a commercially produced pantomime. This means a company employing professional performers as well as needing to take away from The Playhouse and from Harlow its own profit.

I have clearly been under the illusion that this new arrangement was still working in favour of The Playhouse, but it is this I must now question.

There can only be one reason for extending the run of the pantomime; its commercial success is such that it requires more performances to take further advantage of its profitable situation. This being the case, an even higher financial return will then accrue to both company and council and, of course, all this will happen without further cost.

However, if, as the allocated £20k indicates, an extended run cannot be supported without additional financial support, it follows that neither can the existing production be taking place without council subsidy. And if it costs £20k to extend the run, how much does the existing pantomime, previously a community production returning a surplus, now cost?

If this sorry state of affairs is indicative of the council's thinking on the arts, I dread to think what state the rest of its policies must now be in.

Halfon's determination to prevent affordable housing being built for the 3,500 families who have no affordable home? Will she enumerate the terrific things he has done for Harlow citizens? In which of her campaign speeches or literature did she express her admiration?

It's clearly too easy to get into local government these days!

Sudden switch of sides

SIR, With public sympathy for politicians at an extremely low ebb, it cannot be a good time to find a politician changing sides.

The voters of Netteswell elected a Liberal, Linda Pailing to represent them and woke up last week to Star headlines telling them they were now to be represented by the same person but now as a Tory.

People must have some faith in their elected local politicians. To believe in Liberal politics one moment and suddenly Conservative policies the next is a pretty big jump.

However, the voters of Netteswell will soon have a chance to make a new judgement in the May elections.

Mike Danvers

Sound economic sense

SIR, So Harlow's Liberal Democrat leader Chris Millington considers the Conservative council's decision to give council tax payers a break from the insanity of present-day fiscal madness a gimmick (Star, February 4).

I am quite sure many other people like me who live on a pension will welcome the news. Paying £2,600 per year for the privilege of living in my own modest three bedroom bungalow has not exactly endeared me to the previous administration's feckless disregard for simple economics.

Will it never dawn on the Liberal Democrats or head-in-the-sand Labour stalwarts that it is just not possible to have your cake and eat it?

We all grow tired of political posturing, just as we grow ever more resentful of those in political office who bury their snouts ever deeper in the community purse. Isn't it enough that our grandchildren will have to pay for the recklessness of the past 11 years of public spending?

As for the past administrations, I just have to wonder that if it was actually just half as wonderful as Mr Millington intimates, then why are we not in Utopia? I have criticised the incumbent council in the past but would consider they are faced with a Hobson's Choice situation and must face the reality that we have been, and continue to be, taxed out of existence. Things must change.

Promote Harlow? For more sheds to denude the town centre of even more small traders? The "extremely popular" Town Show? Why not let it be run privately? Councils and governments have no money so that means digging into taxpayers' pockets to pay for such things. A clarion call for such people as Mr Millington is "Everything doesn't have to make a profit". When will they ever learn that someone has to make a profit to pay for their ideological world?

Expenses: we'll be the judge

SIR, A lot is being written about the scandalous behaviour of our MPs in the way they are milking the expenses pot. It is now alleged the leader of Essex County Council claimed overnight expenses when he was driven home by his council-funded chauffeur.

If this is true, can we be sure that our county councillors and local councillors are not dipping into expenses pots? Locally, we are having huge cuts made to many voluntary organisations. Staff are being made redundant and funding is being stopped because, we are told, of a shortage of money.

If this is true, why were increases of salary given to the chief executive and his board of directors? Why wasn't a freeze put on their salaries? Why aren't our councillors taking a drop in their expenses?

I am sure the reply we will get to these questions will be full of spin, but we must judge this for ourselves. After all, if we think they are not telling the truth we can give our reply in May when they stand for re-election.

SIR, The recent designation of Harlow as a Sculpture Town recognises our unique attraction in having one of the best outdoor sculpture collections in the UK.

This is already attracting visitors but sadly some of them are being prevented from taking photographs of the very sculptures they have come to see. Recently, staff from Harlow Renaissance were stopped photographing sculptures in the Water Gardens that were required for a new brochure publicising the town – and its sculptures! This is the effect of privatising public land. In the redevelopment of the town centre the council must now ensure that public open spaces and public squares remain public and that the public have a right to take photographs.

This can in fact be included as a condition in any future planning consents.

Obviously, if photography is permanently banned then the Harlow Arts Trust might have to consider relocating their town centre sculptures to public land where they could be viewed and photographed without "security" intervention.

Only 26 years on from 1984 and Big Brother seems to be taking over our town centre.

Ron Bill

It's road hell for motorists

SIR, The current roadworks in Harlow are causing massive disruption to commuters. The problem is that the roadworks are blocking the two major routes from Harlow to London.

I am not prepared to spend time gridlocked in the traffic leading from the Southern Way roundabout to the M11 so I go the other way, via Epping Green, which brings me out at the top of Epping High Street.

However, today I was stuck for over an hour sitting in traffic just past the Travellers Friend pub. I asked a workman what the problem was and he replied that temporary traffic lights were slowing things right down. Furthermore, it would continue for at least another week and then the road was going to be closed for resurfacing.

Today I ended up taking a half day annual leave as I knew it was going to take me hours to complete a 40-minute journey! I have no idea of how I am going to get into work next week.

So the question on everyone's lips is who thought of having all these roadworks at the same time? Surely, it must have been identified at the planning stages that it was going to cause major disruption?

I think the Highways Agency need to explain clearly to commuters what the plans are and the timescale for this.

Lian Cholerton

Traffic delay is unacceptable

SIR, Traffic in the area around Southern Way and the M11 has increasingly become a nightmare over the past few weeks and it has got worse.

Today I left my house at 7am and turned around after an hour to access a different route. This meant a normal 10 minute journey to the M11 took a total of 90 minutes which is completely unacceptable.

The introduction of traffic lights is not a solution. This was clearly demonstrated today with people stuck on the coming into the town, Southern Way and from Church Langley. Bring back the roundabout and build another access point to the M11 from Old Harlow.

The 18-month deadline will have a detrimental effect on local residents and Harlow's economy which is already struggling with the current downturn.

Crisis at Hawks is appalling

SIR, As a former Harlow resident who has recently passed through the town after many years away in the Armed Forces, I am appalled to read the reports on the demise of Harlow Town FC.

I am told by friends who still live in Harlow that public funds have been used to build a superb facility in the middle of nowhere that cannot sustain football and looks like being a ball and chain around any future occupants who are stupid enough to go there.

Reading your report of the public meeting, the former managing director tells a financial tale of woe relating to the move from the Sportscentre. The costs appeared to have quadrupled and moving from the middle of the town to an industrial estate at the edge of town seems to be the root cause.

Regular gate receipts of £700 hardly make sense in ground that holds 2-3,000. Pie in the sky or white elephant come to mind.

This revelation seems to be made infinitely worse by the fact that we, the taxpayer, have stumped up the cash to make it possible. Madness!

I do not know all the details of this but surely somebody ought to be asking who is responsible? I understand that the debacle extends to building an athletics track that was unfit for use by Harlow Athletics Club for competitions for several years.

I think the Harlow public deserve an answer.

Dodging the dog mess

SIR, I was not surprised to read the letter from the parent about how they have dodge dog mess while on the school run with their child (Letters, February 4).

I have just started to do school runs with my little boy and girl and every day I always come home and complain about how irresponsible those people are that let their dogs foul in the street.

They do not even consider how many children will walk through it if they do not clean up after their animals.

My little girl is still in a pram, so even if I am constantly looking down to make sure me and my son do not step in it, the pram is more than likely to come into contact with it.

So after I have removed my children's shoes before entering my home I have to cover the wheels of the pram.

Something has to be done about this in Harlow. It is everywhere and it is disgusting.

Thanks to good samaritans

SIR, Recently, correspondents to the Star have been extolling Harlow's virtues. I would like to endorse their opinions by publicly thanking the many people who came to my assistance last Saturday.

Following a nasty fall in Little Walk I was immediately surrounded by concerned residents who offered me support and comfort as I waited for the ambulance.

I am particularly grateful to the kind gentleman who offered me his blanket on what was a particularly cold morning.

The paramedics and the hospital staff were superb and I can not fault my treatment by all concerned.

So, a big thank-you to all Harlow's anonymous good samaritans.

Council to step up kerbside recycling

RECYCLING services provided by Harlow Council are being stepped up with the relaunch of kerbside collections for old clothing, batteries and small electronic items.

The quarterly collections, to be carried out by Harlow-based environmental organisation ECCO, will allow householders to dispose of items such as textiles, paired footwear, batteries, bags, towels, household linen and small electronic items like radios or CD players. Items should be placed in a black plastic sack, to which should be attached a hanger-shaped leaflet which will be distributed to all homes throughout the town shortly. Sacks should then be put out on the next recycling collection day.

Councillor Tony Hall, chairman of the council's environment and community committee said: "It's important we recycle as much as we can to protect the environment and reduce landfill costs.

"Although we have clothing banks around the town, this scheme gives residents the opportunity to recycle these items from the kerbside. We also know people want to recycle things like batteries and past trials have proved popular for this item.

"Clothing, batteries and small electronic items collected under this scheme will either be reused or recycled."

Judge jails thug who assaulted his ex-partner

A HARLOW man branded a menace to young women after harassing three of his former partners has been jailed for two years.

The judge also issued five-year restraining orders against Alan Stevens in order to protect his latest two victims from further harassment.

Chelmsford Crown Court heard that Stevens, of Foldcroft, threatened to set fire to Keeley Morgan's home while she and her two young children, aged two and 11 months, were inside and send round a van load of armed men to collect his belongings after she ended their three-month relationship.

A month later he forced his way into the home of his previous partner, Jodie Corcorran, demanding to see their baby daughter. He then attacked both her and her friend as they protected the child.

Stevens pleaded guilty to putting Miss Morgan in fear of violence by harassment between August 22 and 26 last year and to two offences of common assault on September 26 against Miss Corcorran, and her friend, Kerry Durrant.

The court heard that Stevens also had a previous conviction for an offence in 2001 involving another former girlfriend.

Prosecutor Michael Fraser said Miss Morgan, who had been with him for three months, ended the relationship on August 22. At 1am the following day a drunken Stevens called her and asked to stay as he had nowhere else to go.

He warned her that if she did not open the door, he would kill her and her children, saying: "I

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

will tear you to pieces, I will kill the kids, I am going to be putting bricks through the window."

The court heard that Stevens then rang again saying he was at a petrol station buying fuel to set fire to the house and car.

Miss Morgan later saw Stevens sneaking around outside her house carrying a bag. She refused to answer any more of his calls.

At 11pm on August 25, Stevens called her again claiming a van-load of people armed with knives and guns would be coming round to collect the rest of his possessions. She hung up and immediately called the police.

Stevens' next victim, Miss Corcorran, ended their two-year relationship in May 2009 but the pair remained in touch so he could see his baby daughter.

On September 26 Stevens demanded to see the child. He kicked the front door open, grabbed Miss Corcorran by her arms and swung her out the way. In the living room he threw her to the side.

Her friend, Kerry Durrant, was standing in front of the baby and she was pushed out of the way, hitting the window ledge.

Miss Corcorran then activated her police panic alarm.

Jane Oldfield, representing Stevens, said in mitigation the common thread between these offences was his return to alcohol abuse after two years which was triggered by the breakdown of his relationship with Miss Corcorran.

"He recognises he has issues in relationships with women and in particular to partners," she added.

Maintenance contractor picks up industry award

COUNCIL maintenance contractor Kier Harlow has scooped a prestigious national housing award.

The company, which was set up in 2007 as a joint venture between Harlow Council and Kier Support Services, won the Best Managed External Contract category at the National Housing Maintenance Forum awards.

Judges praised the service as a creative joint venture that saved millions and improved performance, with the council saving a total of £3.2m in the first two-years of a seven-year contract.

Kier regional director James O'Donnell said: "This excellent achievement is testament to all the hard work being carried out by all at Kier Harlow and Harlow Council."

Council leader Andrew Johnson added: "The partnership is really making a difference to the local economy during difficult times through supporting other businesses and providing jobs to young people through the apprenticeship scheme.

"We are seeing improvements in service delivery and major cost reductions for the council year-on-year and we will continue to work together to ensure that the services residents receive are of the highest quality."

It's business as usual says new man at the top

The new man at the helm of Essex County Council said he was deeply honoured to be chosen as leader.

Peter Martin, who lives in Chelmsford and represents the Chelmer division, praised his predecessor for his work in making the county council one of the most dynamic and innovative authorities in the country.

"This success and record of achievement is due, in part, to the strong leadership of my predecessor," he said. "I would like to pay tribute to the role and significant contribution that Lord Hanningfield has made over the past 10 years as leader of the authority and throughout his time as a member. He leaves Essex County Council in an enviable position in regard to the quality of its services and finances.

"I would like to emphasise that Essex County Council's commitment to delivering excellent public services and value for money for Essex residents is as strong as ever. We have the largest savings programme of any council in Britain that will deliver £300m of savings over the next three years by reducing bureaucracy and streamlining internal processes."

Council leader quits to fight expenses charges

LORD HANNINGFIELD

THE Conservative leader of Essex County Council has vowed to fight criminal charges over his expenses claims.

Lord Hanningfield, who resigned his position at County Hall on Friday after it was announced he would face criminal proceedings under the Theft Act, insisted he could justify all his claims.

Blaming the allegations on a "vindictive campaign" last year, he denied the charges and said he would vigorously defend himself against them.

Lord Hanningfield faces six charges of false accounting over his claims for overnight accommodation while sitting in the House of Lords, despite living just 46 miles from the capital.

He is one of four politicians who will face criminal charges over their expenses. The other three are all Labour MPs.

Speaking after details of the charges were announced by the director of public prosecutions, he said: "To avoid any embarrassment or distraction for my party, I am standing down from my front-bench duties in the House of Lords with immediate effect.

By STAR REPORTERS
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

"I am extremely disappointed by the announcement that I am to be charged. All the claims I have ever made were made in good faith.

"I have co-operated fully with the police throughout their inquiries. I totally refute the charges and will vigorously defend myself against them.

"I have never claimed more in expenses than I have spent in the course of my duties."

A Conservative Party spokesman confirmed he had resigned his position as a front-bench Conservative business spokesman in the House of Lords and the Tory whip has been suspended.

Essex County Council this week announced that Conservative councillor Peter Martin had been chosen as its new leader (see story left).

Lord Hanningfield said it was his intention to remain active with the work of the council.

Warning against complacency as swine flu advice switches to GPs

CHANGES have been made to the way in which potential cases of swine flu in west Essex are handled.

From today (Thursday), anyone who suspects that they have the virus will need to contact their GP by telephone instead of the National Pandemic Flu Service, which closed at midnight.

They should not go to their GP practice, pharmacy, walk-in centre or local accident and emergency department.

Doctors will issue patients with a voucher for anti-virals which should then be collected by a "flu friend".

In Harlow there are three anti-viral collection points: Metwest Pharmacy at Staple Tye, Potter Street Pharmacy at Prentice Place, Potter Street, and Addison Healthcare in Wych Elm House, Hamstel Road.

While the number of swine flu cases in west Essex has been relatively low, people in the 'at risk' groups are still being encouraged to have the vaccination. The vaccination programme for children aged six months to five years will continue.

Alison Cowie, director of public health for NHS West Essex, said: "It is extremely important we do not allow the current low levels of influenza-like illness and the stand down of the National Pandemic Flu Service to lead to a sense of complacency.

"There is still considerable uncertainty about how the virus will behave over the coming months and years. Experts have advised that the H1N1 strain from this pandemic will be the predominant influenza virus in the next flu season."

Friends trace the history of museum site

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertssexnews.co.uk

A NEW publication on the history of the current site of the Museum of Harlow, pictured right, will be published soon.

The Friends of Harlow Museum is working on A History of Mark Hall Manor - The site of the Museum of Harlow which will condense one thousand years of history into less than 200 pages. Many members of the group have contributed in different ways to the project.

One of them, Hazel Lake, said: "Copiously illustrated, [it] traces the story of the families who owned the manor from Ernulf the Saxon in 1066 to the arrival of the Land Army in 1943, the fire of 1947 and the uses made of the remaining buildings to the present day."

Since the Friends' formation in the early 1960s, its members have spent many years researching different aspects of each of the five parishes chosen in 1947 to be the site of what became the New Town.

They have also been responsible for deciphering, illustrating and printing a number of manuscripts and documents of local interest that would otherwise have remained unread in the museum archives.

They have published their accounts in books or booklets including the The Life and Death of Burnt Mill Village, which was featured in the pages of Nostalgia some weeks ago.

That book, which is a collection of memories and photographs, was first published in 1999 and is still on sale at the Museum of Harlow.

Hazel added: "The history of Harlow, both before and since the establishment of the New Town, is well worth preserving.

"The Star is to be congratulated on its consistent co-operation with the Museum of Harlow in the task of collecting, recording and publicising that history."

Many of the Friends' publications mentioned can be obtained from the Museum of Harlow by calling (01279) 454959 or by emailing hazellake007@btinternet.com or brenadajune.miller@tiscali.co.uk.

A full list of titles is also available on request.

Bin pals were headline news

TWENTY-five years ago, while many teenagers were fiddling with their Rubik's Cubes and watching the latest film releases on Betamax video, two Harlow schoolgirls took it upon themselves to try to make a difference.

Inspired by the disturbing reports of famine in Ethiopia, Hazel Thomas and Michelle Key (both 14) wanted to do something to raise some money. So they took the dustbins from their homes in Ash Tree Field and had a sponsored dustbin sit-in at the Colt Hatch shopping centre.

By sitting on the bins from 8am to 6pm they raised £45 in sponsorship and collected a further £23 in loose change from passers by who threw money into the bin lids. The cash was sent to the Blue Peter Ethiopian Appeal.

The girls' efforts were reported in the Star and this week Hazel got back in touch because she lost the picture and wanted to see it again in Nostalgia.

Today, both girls are married. Hazel is now Hazel Beckers and Michelle is now Shelley Tobias.

"We were aware of all the fundraising going on for Ethiopia and decided to do something a little bit different," she said.

"As a result of our little fundraiser we were nominated for Child of Achievement Awards, which we then received. We also were awarded a trip to Paris!"

Hopes of hirsute Hayes

Jerry Hayes, Harlow's bearded Conservative MP, hopes party leader Margaret Thatcher will make a U-turn about her dislike of men with facial hair. The PM is reported to have said she would not have any men in her cabinet sporting a beard. "I hope this will be the first U-turn she makes," said Jerry.

Brave pensioner's reward

A plucky 76-year-old postmistress who fought off armed raiders with a lemonade bottle has been praised by a judge. Awarding Mrs Rose Little £100, Mr Justice Farquarson said at Chelmsford Crown Court: "She has to be admired for her bravery and courage."

Geldof at town concert

Bob Geldof and the Boomtown Rats performed in front of 1,250 fans at the Harlow Odeon as part of the town's pop and rock concert.

Youth theatre's triumph

Harlow Youth Theatre won the 1985 It's a Playout competition, a performance challenge organised in aid of Quest for a Test for Cancer. Also competing were Epping Youth Theatre, Harlow Theatre Company, Netteswell Players and the Moot House Players.

Teenage swimmer's shark shock

A QUICK-thinking teenager fended off a shark attack by bashing it over the head with her body board.

Lydia Ward (14) was waist-deep in water at Oreti Beach in New Zealand when what is believed to have been a broad nosed seven gill shark sunk its teeth into her hip.

Lydia, who was with her brother when the attack happened, said she did not even notice the shark until it clamped its jaws around her leg.

"I saw my brother's face and turned to the side and saw this huge grey thing in the water, so I just hit it on the head with a boogie board," she told reporters.

The shark's bite ripped through Lydia's wetsuit and cut into her skin but she did not need any stitches.

Marine experts said the shark was likely to have been of the species which can grow to three metres in length and has attacked swimmers at the same beach in the past. The last time was in 1999 when the victim needed 60 stitches.

Lydia, a former competitive swimmer and regular beach bather, said she had been left so shaken by the attack that she will be sticking to rivers and lakes in the future.

PROBATE LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Administering the estate of someone who has died can be a daunting task, especially if the deceased was a close family member. Our duty, if appointed administrators to an estate, would be to completely remove all the daily stress of corresponding with: Banks - Insurances - Pension Companies - the Inland Revenue and Social Services. We also take over the responsibility for paying the Funeral Directors and house Utility Bills and liaising directly with solicitors and estate agents should there be a house that must be sold.

There is no need for you to complete forms or attend Probate Offices. This leaves you the time to arrange the funeral and contact family and friends.

We have been giving advice and helping clients with Probate matters over the last 20 years and offer you:

>>JEROUNDS INFANTS

Children at the Pynest Road school rolled up their sleeves and spent two days working outside to create a large willow dome.

The new addition in the school's grounds could be used as an open air classroom.

Helpers from Ganesh Unlimited, an organisation which works with schools on environmental projects, visited the school to offer help and advice.

Penny Jenkins, who is responsible for the school's outside learning environment, said: "We have had a fabulous two days with every child involved in building our fabulous willow dome."

"As well as being functional it is also very beautiful and made from sustainable resources."

The Plovers Road school has been presented with a healthy eating award after gaining top marks for dietary excellence.

The school gained a prestigious gold certificate to add to the silver award it received last year.

The school cooks have confirmed they are a cut above the rest in offering pupils a varied range of healthy eating options.

School cook Josie Treacher said: "We are thrilled with the award; it is a complete team effort in the whole school."

"We are hoping to maintain it until next year. It gives us inspiration to continue with what we are already doing by encouraging the children in their food choices."

Toddlers at the nursery in The Greenway, Harlow, took a trip Down Under when they celebrated Australia Day.

The children and staff took the opportunity to dress up, draw the Australian flag, take part in coin rubbing and sample authentic Australian food.

There was also a didgeridoo for the youngsters to touch and they listened to one of the country's most famous musical exports - Rolf Harris! They also learnt about Australian culture and climate.

Catering manager Vicki Clift said:

"The children got a lot out of it, they all really enjoyed themselves."

LOW RATE ESTATE AGENCY WORTH TALKING ABOUT

Due to the success of the Sapphire approach to selling homes in Harlow, we have decided to launch an office dedicated to Church Langley. At Sapphire we understand buyer behaviour and we know that buyers will tend to look online for properties, mainly on rightmove.co.uk as to looking in the high street, so rather than have expensive flashy premises; we invest our money in the marketing of your property online - that's what's most important. If you were looking to buy, where would you look? Yes, rightmove.co.uk!

Because our overheads are far lower than other high street estate agents, we can afford to offer lower commission fees (0.7%). As long as your property is on rightmove.co.uk your property will sell. So why pay more?

Sapphire – The new hero for Church Langley, saving you both time & money!

- No contracts to sign, No sole agency agreements, No tie ins.
- Only 0.7% to sell your property
- Unlimited marketing on Rightmove & other internet portals

William joins cast of Les Miserables

THE talented young protégé of a Harlow performing arts school has landed his second starring role in a West End musical.

Phoenix Theatre School student William Edden (11) is set to join the cast of Les Miserables at The Queen's Theatre, Shaftesbury Avenue in the role of tragic streetwise urchin Gavroche.

William has already played the part of Nipper in Cameron Mackintosh's acclaimed production of Oliver! on Drury Lane, where fellow Phoenix student David Ballard is currently enjoying a run in the cast. Phoenix's newly appointed musical theatre tutor Claire Maidin, pictured with William, no stranger to high-profile live performances herself after working with stars including John Barrowman, Jason Donovan and Take That, said William fully deserved his West End success.

"It really doesn't surprise me that William will be taking to the West End stage for a second time," she said. "He is so talented and works so hard at everything he does that it's no wonder that producers were eager to snap him up straight away."

School principal Phil Dale added: "There will be a lot of exciting developments for Phoenix over the coming months and Claire's appointment and William's West End role have really given us a great start to the year."

"The students are currently working very hard towards the showcases at The Playhouse next month but I know everyone wishes William all the very best."

Building together for the future

Hotter than Potter or just a pale imitation?

YOU wait years for an all-action adventure inspired by Greek mythology and then two come along at virtually the same time.

Next month promises the remake of the 1981 sword and sandals epic Clash Of The Titans. But first it's the turn of Percy Jackson & The Lightning Thief.

Chris Columbus, who directed the first two Harry Potter films, is a safe pair of hands behind the camera of this big budget extravaganza, seamlessly melding live action and computer trickery.

The similarities with JK Rowling's boy wizard are evident: a tormented hero oblivious to his noble bloodline, a brainy female sidekick and a wise-cracking best friend who accompany the hero on his quest. Screenwriter Craig Titley tries to distance the characters from the students of Hogwarts by upping the ages in the book from 12 to 17, thereby introducing some additional growing pains and raging hormones. Percy Jackson (Ligan Lerman, pictured) is struggling at high school and rowing constantly with his mother Sally (Catherine Keener), who has married a loser called Gabe (Joe Pantoliano).

PERCY JACKSON & THE LIGHTNING THIEF certificate PG 1h58m

During a visit to a museum, the troubled teenager learns a shocking secret: he is the son of Poseidon (Kevin McKidd), god of the sea, and a war is brewing because Zeus (Sean Bean) believes quite wrongly that Percy has stolen his lightning bolt.

Moreover, best friend Grover (Brandon T Jackson) is a weird man-goat hybrid charged with protecting Percy from evil.

Spirited away to Camp Half Blood, Percy begins his training with centaur Chiron (Pierce Brosnan) and the other demi-god children including Annabeth (Alexandra Daddario and Luke (Jake Abel).

When Hades (Steve Coogan) enslaves Percy's mother and promises her safe return in exchange for the stolen lightning bolt, the teenager embarks on a quest to the underworld accompanied by Grover and Annabeth, pitting the teenagers against fearsome adversaries.

Columbus doesn't let the effects overwhelm the storytelling, although it's more of a stretch than a squeeze to fill the rollicking two hours.

Lerman is an engaging and sympathetic hero, tormented by his dyslexia which turns out to be a preference for ancient Greek.

VALENTINE'S DAY certificate 12A 2h04m

A sugar-coated tale of romance and heartbreak that suggests screenwriter Katherine Fugate has overdone on Richard Curtis's comedy Love Actually and decided to pen her own version, set in the sun-baked streets of Los Angeles.

As the sun rises on the city, florist Reed (Ashton Kutcher) proposes to career-driven girlfriend Morley (Jessica Alba). Miraculously she accepts, to the surprise of his happily married right-hand man Alphonso (George Lopez) and teacher best friend Julia (Jennifer Garner).

Elsewhere, Julia's fifth grade student Edison (Bryce Robinson) plots a surprise, grandparents Estelle (Shirley MacLaine) and Edgar (Hector Elizondo) celebrate another year together, and TV sports reporter Kelvin (Jamie Foxx) woos agent Paula (Queen Latifah) and publicist Kara (Jessica Biel) for an exclusive on American football quarterback, Sean Jackson (Eric Dane).

Meanwhile, in the skies above Los Angeles, US Army Captain Kate Hazeltine (Julia Roberts) shares her excitement about a surprise reunion with fellow passenger Holden (Bradley Cooper).

Valentine's Day is a morass of cloying fairytale romances across the generations that predominantly end with a happy ever after or, at the very least, a come-uppance and emotional closure.

THE WOLFMAN certificate 15 1h42m

Many years after he left the sleepy Victorian hamlet of Blackmoor and memories of his mother's death, haunted nobleman Lawrence Talbot (Benicio Del Toro) is contacted by his brother's fiancée Gwen Coniffe (Emily Blunt) with terrible news – his sibling has vanished without a trace and the entire village has come together to find him.

Lured back to the family estate owned by his estranged father (Sir Anthony Hopkins), Lawrence discovers that something has been killing the villagers, and a Scotland Yard inspector called Aberline (Hugo Weaving) has come to Blackmoor to investigate the brutal slayings. Evidence points to a savage creature living in the woods surrounding the village.

>>>INVICTUS Clint Eastwood's majestic film chronicles the true story of Nelson Mandela's dogged quest to reunite fractured South Africa through the game of rugby, starring Morgan Freeman as Mandela, and Matt Damon as South Africa's rugby team captain Francois Pienaar.

>>>THE PRINCESS AND THE FROG Disney breaks with tradition and casts its first ever African-American princess in this enchanting reworking of the Grimm brothers' fairytale, set in New Orleans around the time of the First World War. Tiana (voiced by Anika Noni Rose) is turned into a frog after kissing a smooth-talking amphibian, and has to embark on a perilous quest to get herself turned back into a human.

The stop-motion animation is visually impressive but it's a film you admire and marvel at rather than unreservedly love.

>>>UP (2D) Airborne adventure about a cranky old man who ties thousands of balloons to his home to fulfill his lifelong dream of seeing the wilds of South America and an excitable young boy who accompanies him as a stowaway.

>>>PLANET 51 The computer-animated comedy unfolds on a world far from ours where little green men, women and child live in domestic bliss. But the crash-landing of a dim-witted American astronaut (voiced by Dwayne "The Rock" Johnson) causes chaos.

>>>PRETTY WOMAN Released on Valentine's Day to celebrate the film's 20th anniversary, Pretty Woman pairs Julia Roberts and Richard Gere in the rags-to-riches fairytale of prostitute Vivian, who is plucked off the streets of Los Angeles by handsome and commitment-shy businessman, Edward Lewis. Offered an obscene amount of money to be his companion for the week, Vivian slowly but surely wins her way into Edward's affections, offering him the chance of a long-term relationship he never thought possible or practical. However, her past threatens to sour the bond between Edward and business partner Stuckey (Jason Alexander).

Are we nearly there, Yeti?

Skoda's Yeti isn't a fully-fledged 4x4 but it should make a lot of sense for families looking for something a little different. JONATHAN CROUCH reports.

SKODA hasn't tried to produce a fully-fledged small SUV with this Yeti but they have set out to provide a very credible alternative to a conventional family hatchback that has the option of limited four-wheel drive ability should you need it.

It's neither a compact SUV 4x4 or a family hatchback but its tall shape and optional all-wheel drive system ought to bring you the best aspects of both, or so we are told. According to the thinking behind this car, the slump in sales over recent years of conventional small SUVs didn't mean we'd all fallen out of love with them, only that we were fed up with their high running costs and clunky handling.

Nissan's Qashqai, launched in 2007, was quick to prove the theory and designers originally set to bring us chunky compact SUVs have been scurrying back to their drawing boards ever since, with results like Peugeot's 3008 and the Yeti, Skoda's first real niche market model.

Unless you're gunning this car off the line on a wet day or driving it off road, you're unlikely to realise that it has four wheel drive at all.

Actually, it may not have, since the entry-level 104bhp 1.2-litre petrol and 108bhp 2.0-litre TDI diesel models that many customers will choose are two wheel drive only. If

Skoda Yeti

PRICE	£13,990-£22,635 on the road
INSURANCE GROUPS	3-9
CO. EMISSIONS	140-159g/km
PERFORMANCE [TDI 140]	0-60mph 9.9s / top speed 118mph
ECONOMY [TDI 140]	47.1mpg (combined)
SAFETY FEATURES	Driver, passenger front, side curtain, airbags, ABS
WILL IT FIT IN YOUR GARAGE?
length/width/height (mm)	4233/1793/1691

you want the Haldex 4x4 arrangement borrowed from Skoda's Octavia, you can choose any of the 2.0-litre diesels, the 108bhp offering supplanted by 138 and 168bhp offerings, or a 158bhp 1.8-litre petrol unit.

If you have opted for all-wheel drive you shouldn't be expecting to conquer the Serengeti – the system will only send drive to the rear when it detects wheel slip. Still, at least some off-road ability is assured by the presence of hill decent control (which applies automatic braking to maintain a constant downhill speed) and an off-road driving mode that adjusts the ABS, traction control and EDL (Electronic Differential Lock) systems to cope with loose surfaces.

At the wheel, you have that elevated SUV-style driving position with excellent all-round visibility but, at the same time, a car that will handle like any conventional Golf-sized family hatch, quick to change direction with surprisingly little body roll for something this tall. There's loads of grip, the ride is comfortable and the electric power steering is direct and accurate, if a little artificial-feeling.

Though this isn't trying to be a fully-fledged SUV, it looks pretty purposeful, which is half the battle in this style-conscious sector. There are modern Skoda design touches too, such as the chrome-topped grille and the blacked-out roof pillars. Inside, everything falls neatly to hand around that commanding driving position, with a smart colour touch-screen dominating the central dash. The broad windows and tall windscreen aid visibility and quality dashboard materials and neat design top off a very accomplished cabin.

They say the tale of the tape doesn't lie but in this case, we're inclined to believe that it does. At 4233mm long, this car is shorter even than Skoda's supermini-based Fabia estate, yet climb inside and you'd never know it.

List prices suggest that you'll probably be paying somewhere in the £14,000 to £23,000 bracket for your Yeti, depending on the spec and engine you choose and the options you decide upon. If you're able to buy in the foothills of the Yeti line-up, then this Skoda looks good value against direct Nissan Qashqai and Peugeot 3008 crossover rivals.

A large proportion of Yeti sales are likely to be of the entry-level 104bhp 1.2-litre petrol or 108bhp 2.0-litre TDI diesel two-wheel drive models. Once you get into the 2.0 TDI 4x4 or 1.8-litre TSI petrol options, things start to become a little more expensive, though still reasonable value compared to a conventional SUV.

As for equipment, you should at least find a height-and-reach adjustable steering wheel, daytime running lights, roof rails, alloy wheels and electric wing mirrors. Safety-wise, ABS and Brake Assist are offered as standard, while ESP is included on all 4x4 versions. There are up to nine airbags, Isofix anchorage points for child seats in the rear and you can also expect to find active front head restraints that help to prevent whiplash in a rear-end collision.

With a relatively wide engine range, fuel economy and emissions will vary but the Yeti's are efficient and modern units that should give good returns for the power available. The 140bhp 2.0-litre diesel with four-wheel drive should return 47.1mpg on the combined cycle with 157g/km CO2 emissions. In comparison, a TDI 110 with 2WD manages 52.3mpg and 140g/km. At the end of the day, it's down to you to do the maths.

This is a well thought out and practical little product but its value proposition will hinge on careful choice between the various engines and specs available. A lower-order version is a tempting alternative to a conventional family hatch, with a quality build and a surprisingly spacious interior for a car that's so compactly manoeuvrable on the day-to-day trips that'll characterise most customers' typical requirements.

The Yeti's crossover concept may be a compromise but chances are it'll be anything but a rare sight on our roads.

In accordance with section 15(1) of the Act to discontinue Peterswood Infant School and Nursery (Community), Paringdon Road, Harlow, Essex, CM18 7RQ on 31 December 2010.

All statutory consultation requirements in respect of this proposal have been complied with.

It is anticipated that pupils attending Peterswood Infant School and Nursery at the time of closure will transfer onto the roll of the current Paringdon Junior School which, under a related proposal (see Part 2 of the Notice), will have its age range extended to become an all through primary school. Alternatively, admission may be sought to other schools in the area that have places available.

No new transport arrangements will be required as the pupils will continue to be educated on the existing site and no increase in car usage is expected. Transport arrangements for pupils attending alternative schools will be in accordance with the County Council's published policy.

Part 2

The proposed alteration will make provision for 52 part time nursery pupils (26 full time equivalent places) and will take effect from 1 January 2011. All statutory consultation requirements in respect of this proposal have been complied with.

The current capacity of the junior school is 216 and the proposed capacity will be 210. This means that both sets of proposals should either be approved or rejected i.e. the closure of Peterswood Infant School and Nursery should only be approved if the proposal to alter the age range of Paringdon Junior School is also approved.

Two wins for Harlow seals place in last 16

A PLACE in the last 16 of the National Founders Cup was booked by Harlow Hawks when they won their last two East group games.

Hawks triumphed 77-58 at Cambridge Cats on Monday after they notched a 104-66 home win against County Upper Suffolk five days earlier.

The visitors started slowly against Cambridge but good play from Russ Allan and Mark Haddow resulted in the visitors getting points and they started the second quarter 20-12 ahead.

Hawks scored six unanswered points but the Cats rallied and Harlow only led 36-30 at the halfway stage.

The Essex team stepped up their defence in the third quarter and increased their advantage to 54-45 going into the final quarter.

Shab Niaz and Lee Jones then scored strongly as Hawks won comfortably.

Shab Niaz was the top scorer with 21 points, while Allan chipped in with 16, Haddow hit 15 points and Nick Moss hit 10 points.

Other scorers included Lee Jones (9) and Rimas Norkeliunas (4).

The game against County Upper Suffolk was switched to Harlow due to the lack of an available court in Suffolk.

Jones scored six points in the opening quarter.

The hosts showed good ball movement and sharp shooter Shab Niaz capitalised.

Hawks led 30-19 going into the second quarter and extended their lead to 54-40 at half-time.

Harlow enjoyed an 11-0 run in the third quarter and this, coupled with good scoring from Moss and Rimas Norkeliunas, guided Hawks to a convincing win.

Haddow top scored with 25 points. Others scorers were Norkeliunas (21), S. Niaz (20), Jones (14), Moss (8), Z. Niaz (8 pts) Allan (6) and Lemmings (2).

Striker set to return to Hawks

The ex-Raith Rovers ace was through with just the keeper to beat on 22 minutes, but fluffed this chance.

Pelley's free-kick struck a home post on 35 minutes.

In the second half, Maxwell fired against the bar on 59 minutes before Woking doubled their advantage on 61 minutes from the penalty spot.

Eyong Tambeson fouled Richmond in the box and was booked.

Jimmy Webb's first spot-kick went in but was re-taken because of encroachment and Webb made no mistake with the second either.

Samuel said: "We had enough chances to win but we did not take them and that is the bottom line."

HARLOW TN: Horton, Soloman (Clemo 55), E. Green, Tambeson, Pelley, Walker, Espinoza, Maxwell, Edwards, Ojala (Simpson 70), Dobson (Abraham 80). Subs not used: Whitbread, D. Green. Att: 65.

Burnt Mill's Sophie crowned Essex 400m champion

Sophie eventually won by 5m to seal her first county gold medal. Her time of 62.18s was a new indoor personal best (PB).

The event was held at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre in North London.

Kirsty McIntosh struck gold in the senior women's pole vault (3.40m), while Tyler Bown (15), from Mark Hall School, grabbed silver in the U-17 boys 400m (54.62s, PB).

Harlow's Dan Yaxley (17) gained silver in the U-20 800m (2mins 5 secs) and 11-year-old Sade Akinkunmi (Harlow AC) took bronze in the U-13 800m in 2:55.

At Victoria Park in East London, Perry Rowan (13), from Burnt Mill School, claimed a victory.

Perry clocked 5 mins 12 secs in a 1.6km road race.

Ryan Dunne (14), from Mark Hall School, won the U-15 boys 4km race in 14:01.

Sam Bengie (16), from Stewards School, was 2nd in the U-17 4km race (13:49). Isobel Moss (14), from Passmores School, was 3rd in the U-15 girls 4km race in 16:48.

Mark Hall's Ben Patterson (12) was 5th in the U-13 boys 1.6km race (5:42).

Lauren Freeman (15), from Passmores School was 4th in the U-17 girls 4km event (17:21).

Alicia McArdell (12), from Mark Hall School, was 12th in the U-13 girls 1.6km race (6:19).

Virus-hit Amelia Barrett (13) represented Essex in the Southern Inter Counties Schools contest at Reigate. She battled hard in a 3.8km race for 61st (15:05).

New faces but same old story

NEW signing Aaron Scott grabbed a debut goal but Harlow Town still lost further ground at the foot of the table after a disappointing 2-1 defeat at neighbours Cheshunt on Saturday, writes MIGUEL ASSUN-CAO.

Towering centre-half Scott, snapped up from division one north rivals Ilford, was one of two recruits.

Left-back Rickelle Christian also made his return after a short spell at Boreham Wood.

Bradley Harrison was guilty of wasting the game's first good chance as he headed over from 10 yards after being left unmarked at the back post in the 12th minute.

Harlow replied with their first meaningful attack when new skipper Ryan Maxwell delivered an inviting cross into the box but centre-half Julio Barnes' header was off target.

The Ambers broke the deadlock midway through the first-half when Harrison's well struck half-volley beat Hawks keeper Callum Horton.

The visitors levelled when a delivery from ex-Raith Rovers player Maxwell was met by Scott who side-footed home past Cheshunt keeper Luke Dodd in the 33rd minute.

The home side regained the lead when the lively Chris Meikle chased down a hopeful long ball before rounding Horton and slotting home in the 44rd minute.

Cheshunt 2, Harlow Tn 1

Ryman League, div one north

Straight after the break, Scott was denied a second when Dodd tipped over his header from a corner.

As Harlow began to commit more men forward in the second half, Cheshunt began to rely on the pace of Meikle on the counter attack and he fashioned a series of openings only to be let down by wayward finishing.

The match became a scrappy affair but Harlow should have been awarded a penalty when sub Charlie Simpson was upended by a Cheshunt defender on 64 minutes. The referee was unmoved, however.

Omar Pike, a second-half substitute, was denied by Dodd on 77 minutes as Harlow ran out of ideas.

Hawks boss Marvin Samuel said: "Aaron Scott played well but he needs to work on his fitness."

"Rickelle Christian had an average game, below his standards, and I am looking for him to show he can play at this level."

HARLOW TN: Horton, Christian, Clemo, Barnes, Scott, Maxwell, Akinnawo (Simpson 45), Tambeson, Grant (Espinoza 65), Dobson (Pike 45), Edwards. Subs not used: E. Green, Soloman. Att: 239.

Great day for Linda with veteran win and county bronze

LINDA Selby took pride of place with victory in the women's veteran 60 section at the Essex Half Marathon Championships at Great Bentley.

The Harlow Running Club member also won a county bronze medal in the women's Vet 55 category, enjoying a superb time of 1 hour, 54 minutes and 40 seconds which was only 12 seconds outside her own club Vet 60 record.

The race was run over a fairly flat course in near perfect conditions which resulted in several personal best (PB) times for the distance.

One HRC record that was broken was the women's Vet 40 record as Dionne Jones improved her own best in an excellent 1:35.50.

First Harlow runner to finish was Jared Bethell in 28th place out of 826 runners in a top time of 1:18.36.

He was followed home by Alan Broughton in 1:22.15 and the steadily improving David Ayling in a PB of 1:25.45.

Fastest Harlow woman was Katie Herrington in a PB of 1:32.57.

There were also PBs for Jon Steadman,

Injury mars great win for Ladies

Colchester II 1, Harlow 2

Essex Women's Hockey League, premier division

AN horrific injury to Harlow rightwing Gill Phipps marred an excellent win at third-placed Colchester.

With just eight minutes gone, Harlow went ahead after a fine run from captain Emma Tweddle. She fed centre-forward Sonya Amos who steered the ball past the keeper.

However, there was concern moments later when an errant hit from the Colchester left-back struck Phipps, right, who sustained a fractured nose and cheek bone.

She was taken to hospital and was later discharged.

Following the lengthy delay, Colchester broke before a player fired past keeper Linda Rowley from close range.

The visitors regained the lead with 15 minutes left. Carolyn Rushton's pin-point pass to Amos at the top of the circle enabled her to quickly cross to the waiting Anna Ferdinando to slot home.

The hosts rallied and nearly drew parity from a penalty corner but defender Jo Green was on hand to guide the ball past a post.

Ferdinando was unable to latch onto a dangerous cross late on with a chance to snatch a third for Harlow.

Harlow now lie fifth but have three games in hand on most teams above them.

HARLOW (squad): Rowley, Shearman-Slack, Trimble, Green, Douglas, Tweddle, Rushton, Ferdinando, Esterhuysen, Amos, Figg, Phipps.

Harlow 2, Waltham Forest 3

East Men's Hockey League, div four south east

A VALIANT fightback from 2-0 down proved in vain as Harlow lost by the odd goal in five on Saturday.

Harlow did not start the match well and went behind when Waltham Forest converted a short corner early on.

The home side slightly improved but were hit on the break to go 2-0 down.

The deficit was halved near the end of the first half when the returning Chris Shearman-Slack picked out Stuart Kirk who had made an intelligent run across the D. Kirk deflected the ball past the goalkeeper.

There were few chances in the second half, but as both sides started to tire the game came alive with chances.

Waltham Forest had a goal ruled out for being struck marginally outside the D before Adam Ottley and Shearman-Slack were denied by the keeper.

James Smith also went close but his shot went just the wrong side of a post.

Harlow continued to push forward in search of an equaliser and when Shearman-Slack broke forward and rounded the keeper, he was pushed out of the way by a defender and the hosts were awarded a penalty stroke. Ottley coolly converted to level the scores with little under 10 minutes remaining.

With a few minutes left, a loose pass in the final third gave possession away and Waltham Forest broke to score a third.

HARLOW: Johnson, Castle, Plumridge, Jones, Symonds (c), Kroszka, Smith, Shearman-Slack, Kirk, Hastler, Ottley.

Striker set to return to Hawks

HAWKS boss Marvin Samuel is looking to bring striker Wayne Cort back to the club. The 34-year-old forward – the brother of ex-Wimbledon and Newcastle United striker Carl Cort – is set to train with Harlow Town FC today (Thursday). Samuel and Wayne Cort played together in the Hawks side which won promotion from Ryman division two in 1998-99 under Eddie McCluskey. If Cort impresses

Gt Wakering R 2, Harlow Tn 0
Ryman League, division one north he may claim a place on the bench for Saturday's home clash against leaders Lowestoft Town. Samuel said: "He is probably 60 to 65 per cent fit [he has not played for a year due to work commitments]. I would use him as a sub. He is strong in the air and plays the simple ball well and can hold it up to give us time." Samuel also wants a left-back and centre-half on his shopping list as he seeks to lift Harlow off the bottom. Samuel started with new signing right-back Sirak Soloman and recalled centre-half Michael Pelley at Great Wakering. Harlow fell behind on six minutes when a 25-yard snap shot from Neil Richmond flew into the far corner. At the other end, skipper Ryan Maxwell went close.

Give them a clubhouse!

Sports trust needs residents to back its project

By ALAN SCOTT

PEOPLE power holds the key to a permanent £200,000 pavilion finally being built on the Church Langley estate in Harlow – some 11 years after a sports association at the heart of the site began fighting for its construction.

Three projects are targeting the £100,000 People's Community Chest, made available by Essex County Council.

But it is the people of Church Langley and Potter Street who will have the final say on who gets the money.

Richard Parish, chairman of the South East Harlow Youth & Sports Association (SEHYSA), is urging residents to back its scheme for a permanent clubhouse with a toilet on the Church Langley Playing Fields in Minton Road.

Among the sports clubs which come under the umbrella of the SEHYSA are Langley Colts FC (which has some 300 members and 17 teams), Harlow & District Football League team Rouge Lyon, plus Potter Street Football Club and Potter Street Cricket Club.

The association has already raised half the £200,000 needed to construct a new clubhouse. It already has £100,000 specifically for this project, including £60,000 from developers.

The sports clubs currently use the run-down hut but this is in dire need of replacement.

The hut was already replaced once after being burnt down in 2004.

Now Parish hopes the association will get the go-ahead for a brick-built 'proper' clubhouse.

However, he fears parishioners and Church Langley residents will vote en masse for a two-story extension to the Church Langley Community Centre, one of the other two options fighting for the People's £100K Community Chest.

The third proposal is a scheme to improve the footpaths at Brenthall and Barnsley Woods and provide seating and wooden sculptures between Church Langley and Newhall.

Parish says if its project does not get the thumbs-up it could be years before the site gets a new clubhouse.

He said: "We desperately need a clubhouse there. It would have more use for the community. Anyone could use it."

"It's meant to be democracy working but you've got 280 kids at Church Langley Colts and they won't get a vote. The parishioners will be voting and they will want to benefit the church.

"The community centre has had half a million already. We just want to build a clubhouse with a toilet!"

Langley Colts chairman Carl Whay stressed the facility could also be used as a youth club during weekdays. He explained: "We would incorporate it into the community. There would be a double benefit. It would be used matchdays and during the week by young people. There is not much for them to do on the estate."

Residents are invited to attend a forum at the Potters Arms public house in Church Langley Way on Monday at 6pm to find out more about all three projects up for the cash.

No paid role for Bothwell

HARLOW Town FC chairman and chief executive Carol Bothwell has quit the cash-strapped club. But claims that Mrs Bothwell was offered a £20,000 a year role to remain at the Ryman League club have been dismissed by a club insider. Mrs Bothwell took over as chairman in July. Ex-Hawks boss Tom Cunningham, in a consortium which is buying the club, has still not officially taken over. He said: "It will take days rather than weeks. We are waiting for the OK from the legal people."
